Volunteer Training

- Starting November 1st, any new volunteers will need to complete the SD 4-H Volunteer Orientation Course. The course is through Training House (traininghouse.sdstate.edu), self-guided, broken in to six required sections and one optional section. Each section has a video that is 8–12 minutes long with a short review quiz and evaluation at the end. All three elements must be completed in order to complete the course. Volunteers will need to self-enroll. Enrollment instructions are attached. Volunteers should complete this course after their interview with a local 4-H professional and complete in the time waiting for their background check to be complete. The course can be done over the course can be broken up as needed. Volunteers will be able to start and go back-in to access the course. The background check and course must be completed before the State 4-H office will approve the volunteer in 4-H Online and be cleared to begin volunteering. Any and all current volunteers with South Dakota 4-H are also encouraged to complete the course as a way to further develop their volunteer skills! Information is relevant to not just new volunteers, but will be helpful for everyone working with our 4-H youth. While it is not required to complete the course as a current volunteer, I would ask that anyone accessing the course complete evaluation components, so we know how many participated.
